Long, long ago in the mountain village of Osugi...

"Good luck finding a spring, Hachibei!"

"I hope you find one soon, for who knows when this drought will end?"

"I'll do my best, everyone."

"But watch out for the Tengu."

Along the way, Hachibei made some interesting new friends.

"Hi, I am the Yuki Otoko, do you happen to have any ice cream?"

"Oh, my name is Chickie Chicken, and I am on my way to the Miss Chicken Contest. Do you like my mirror?"

"I'm Tanuki. Leave it to me, I know where a spring is!"

Suddenly, out jumped the Tengu

"What are you doing on my mountain?"

"Looking for a spring."

"Hmm, well, I'll allow you to if you promise to look for the character who has stolen my magic fan and my... my... my special drumsticks!"

"Well, okay..."

"But remember, this is my mountain!"

Soon they came across Kaminari, the thunder god.

"The Tengu stole my drum, but I still have the special drumsticks, so he can't make it rain or snow or anything!"

"Oh, so that is why it hasn't rained for a long time!

"Let's go up to the Tengu's fortress to try and get Kaminari's drum back!"

The Tengu held the drum very tightly.

"Why are you doing that, Tengu?"

"You reminded me of my horse, and I just had to keep him safe!"

"So, what are you going to do now?"

"I'm going to put it back as a gift!"

At the Tengu's fortress, the five friends were soon caught in Tengu's trap.

"Ah ha ha ha, finally I have the power of the skies! he roared, pounding on the drum. SHAZAM!

In fright, Chickie chicken hid up her mirror, and the lightning bounced back, turning the Tengu to stone.

"Hooray! Now, Kaminari, please make it rain again. But what shall we do with the Tengu?"

"Let's put him up in Osugi!"

And that is the legend of how the Osugi Tengu turned to stone.